Lesson 18 The Snowman

3 Let's sing!

Skating, skating, please come along,
Playing in this lovely snow all day long.
Boys and girls, young and old,
Don't be afraid of this winter cold.

He said, "Poor snowman! It's cold! Put on a hat!" He took off his hat and put it on the snowman.

The snowman opened his eyes! "Hello," he said. "How are you?"

"Yikes!" said John. He took his hat off the snowman. The snowman was a snowman again. He put his hat on the snowman.

"Hello," said the snowman. "How are you?"

"You can talk!" said John. "What's your name?"

"I don't think I have a name," said the snowman. "What a cold, snowy day! Wonderful! What do you want to do?"

"Can you skate?" asked John.
 "Skate? I don't know," said the snowman.
 "Do you want to learn? I can teach you," said John. "Let's go!"
 But the snowman couldn't go. He had no feet.
 John said, "Don't worry! I can help you." John put his skates under the snowman.
 "Can you skate now?" asked John.

4

Whoosh! The snowman could skate! He could skate very fast!
 "This is easy! This is fun!" he said.
 "Can we always skate?" the snowman asked.

5

"No. Spring is coming. Then comes summer and autumn," said John.
 "Why can't we skate in spring, summer and autumn?" asked the snowman.
 "Because it is too warm. There is rain, there is wind, but there is no snow and no ice," said John.
 "And no snowmen," said the snowman sadly.
 "No," said John. "But don't worry. I can help you."

6

At dinner time, John's mother opened the fridge.
