Thanksgiving in the United States

In most countries, people usually eat traditional food on special holidays. A special day in the United States is Thanksgiving. It is always on the fourth Thursday in November and it is a time to give thanks for food in the autumn. At this time, people also remember the first travelers from England who came to live in America about 400 years ago.

['trævlə] ['ɪŋglənd]

These travelers had a long, hard winter, and many of them died. In the next autumn, they gave thanks for life and food in their new home. These days, most Americans still celebrate this idea of giving thanks by having a big meal at home with their family. The main dish of this meal is almost always turkey, a large bird.

A close-up photograph of a tall, clear glass filled with a vibrant yellow smoothie. A thin, light-colored straw is inserted into the top of the drink. The smoothie has a slightly frothy texture. The background is a plain, light-colored surface, possibly a tablecloth. Overlaid on the center of the image is the text "Thank you!". The word "Thank" is in a bold, pink, italicized font, and "you!" is in a bold, brown, italicized font. The text is slightly transparent, allowing the smoothie and glass to be seen through it.

Thank you!
