七、阅读理解。(20分)

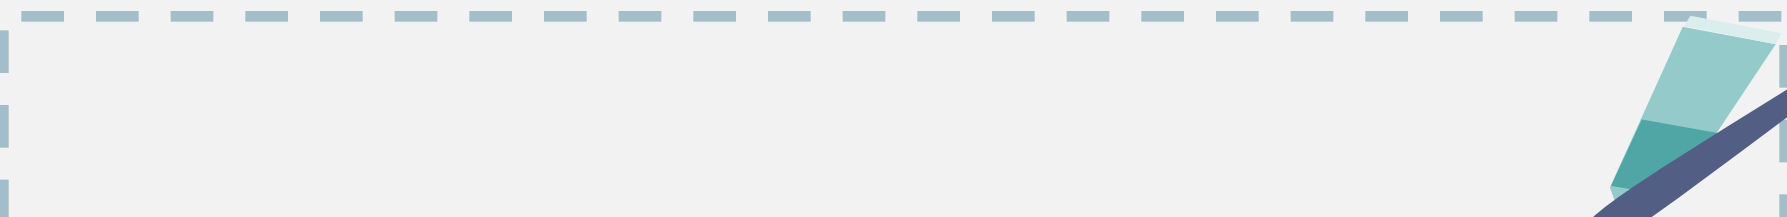

A(信阳九中单元卷)

When I was in Chengdu, I saw teahouses(茶馆) everywhere on the streets. There is a saying, “China has the best teahouses in the world and Chengdu has the best teahouses in China.”

The service in the teahouses is really friendly. When you go into a teahouse, the waiters or waitresses(女服务员) greet you with smiles on their faces and with teapots and cups in their hands. After you sit down, they set the cups on the table and pour the tea into the cups.

People who go to the teahouses are not really thirsty. They pay 20 cents to go to a teahouse and will sit there all day long to chat(聊天) with each other. These days, more and more people go to teahouses for business(生意) talks. Some teahouses also have performances, such as story-telling and Sichuan Opera.

Last Saturday, our school organized a talent show to raise(筹集) money for charity. It was a great success. Students took an active part in it and we raised 20,000 yuan in all.

After the show, I interviewed(采访) three students. First, I talked with Liu Li. In the talent show, she danced the ballet(芭蕾舞). “How long have you been dancing the ballet?” I asked. “For about six years,” she answered. “Why do you learn it?” “I think it’s beautiful and I want to be a professional dancer when I grow up.”

Next I had a talk with Zhao Qiang. He played a piece of Mozart's music. He played wonderfully. I asked, "When did you start playing the piano?" "Um, I'm twelve now and I have been doing it since I was five," he said. "Are you going to play the piano after you finish high school?" "Sure. My dream is to be a pianist."

Finally, I asked Chen Yun, an 11-year-old girl. She sang us some folk songs (民歌). Her voice is very sweet. "Why are you interested in folk music?" I asked. "I admire Song Zuying and I want to be a singer like her. I have been singing folk songs since five years ago. I hope I can hold a singing concert in the future," she said.
